Duni Group takes majority share in reuse company Relevo

Duni AB (Duni Group), market leader in sustainable dining and food packaging solutions for the restaurant market, today announces the Group's majority ownership of the reuse company Relevo GmbH (Relevo). The purpose of the transaction is to further strengthen Duni Group's food packaging business and to provide circular solutions to customers for every occasion.

Having entered into a minority ownership in 2021, aiming for the circular economy, Duni Group now increases the Group's ownership from 24.51 to 50.02 percent in the German startup company Relevo. The Munich-based impact company currently provides catering and restaurant businesses with a complete tech-enabled system solution for reusables.

"We want to give more than we take from the planet. Duni Group therefore wants to join forces with Relevo to provide solutions that leave behind as little waste as possible", says Robert Dackeskog, President and CEO of Duni Group. "This means that we want to care, not only for the start-of-life of a product, but also for the end-of-life of a product, by providing a software to secure low emissions and promote rotatable solutions".

Relevo offers a comprehensive, reusable solution for take-away food and beverages. This solution combines high-quality dishware, an easy-to-implement digital process to track and trace containers with a premium partner, as well as user services. Since its launch in 2020, Relevo has grown dynamically, working with more than 2,500 HoReCa partners in Europe and serving a community of over 250,000 end-users.

“We are proud to be part of Duni Group, to pursue our shared vision of a circular and environmentally friendly take-away experience. Given the numerous synergies in commercial operations and potential in international market access, we look forward to an exciting collaboration to further develop and grow this sustainable reuse solution”, says Gregor Kolb, Founder & Managing Director of Relevo.

Relevo will continue to be sold and marketed as a separate brand, as part of Duni Group’s reuse offering, spanning from tableware to software and system solutions. Relevo will be consolidated into Duni Group within the Food packaging solutions business area.
